ICSS provides the support and practical education for adults with developmental disabilities and mental health issues, who face significant barriers for sustainable and meaningful employment. We offer our participants the opportunity to gain skills, training, programs and social inclusion for all. In our programming and the products we create, our focus is to be environmentally conscious and support Canadian businesses. As often as possible we use upcycling and creative thinking to minimize waste, all of our suppliers are Canadian and we often use our own grown produce from our therapy farm.

Spread the Joy

Our growing Social Enterprise, “Spread the Joy” not only features workshops of meaningful creativity, it is designed to put our participants first by including them both in the creation of our wonderful products, while also giving them a voice in decision-making and management. Our dedicated participants learn valuable employment skills while also benefiting from paid work in a variety of ways. All our products are made by people with disabilities. Unlike many day programs Spread the Joy offers participants a chance to learn a variety of business skills and obtain sustainable and meaningful employment.

Sow and Grow Farm

Located in Navan, our therapy farm is where participants not only play with and care for animals, but they discover their green thumbs by planting, maintaining and harvesting herbs, flowers and vegetables from the farm’s garden which are used as natural ingredients in our Spread the Joy products. Wood from the farm is also collected and used to create some of the wonderful pieces that Spread the Joy sells, from candle centerpieces, to our unique bottle openers, coasters and beautiful custom Christmas tree ornaments. Our participants learn to use wood-working tools and submit their wonderful ideas to produce new pieces from recycled materials.

Spa Products are creatively designed and handmade by our participants. The fragrance combinations and vivid colours create a

...er time.
